Biscoff, a traditional Belgian cookie, is a cinnamon-y, gingersnap-type cookie known by many as the airline cookie. Delta hands out millions of these cookies. A few years back, this cookie was translated into a sweet spread good enough to rival peanut butter and Nutella.

While that has meant all kinds of law suits for leading biscoff producers (Lotus Bakeries, Biscuiterie Willems and Vermeiren Princeps), it has meant lots of good things for desserts. This spread makes it easy to add Biscoff's addictive flavor into cookie batter, milk shakes and even boozy floats.
