ON THE MAP

Welcome to Dogpatch

Take a vibrant mix of Victorians and historic warehouses. Fill them with inventive boutiques and restaurants. Add an industrial waterfront district—and you've got San Francisco's newest creative epicenter.

1 Yellow Building

The area's beating heart is an 1890's stable that now houses Piccino (piccinocafe.com; 88)—a convivial restaurant dedicated to thin-crust pizzas and small plates—as well as an outpost of Modern Appeal Clothing (modernappealclothing.com), known for avant-garde fashions, and Dig (digwinex.com), a wine shop and bar. Minnesota and 22nd Sts.

2 Workshop Residence

Head here for goods crafted by hand on-site, including silk crepe dresses from Paris-based designer Aurore Thibout and wood-and-leather wedges from local artisan Martha Davis. 833 22nd St.; theworkshopresidence.com.

3 Chocolate Lab

Cult brand Recchiuti Confections' long-awaited café serves rich desserts such as mandarin-chocolate-mousse cake and lime-meringue tartlets. A few doors down is Little Nib, their new retail shop. 801 22nd St.; chocolatelabssf.com.

4 Mr. & Mrs. Miscellaneous

With its tattooed owners, gleaming steel fixtures, and far-out flavors (black sesame; candied violet), this isn't your grandpa's ice cream parlor. Almost everything is house-made, from the waffle cones to the peanut brittle cookies. 699 22nd St.; 415-970-0750.

5 Museum of Craft & Design

This cultural hub has a slick new home in a former can-manufacturing plant. Triple the space means more room to showcase special exhibitions such as whimsical metal-and-wood sculptures by Bay Area artist Michael Cooper. 2509 Third St.; sfmed.org. —JAIME GILLIN

TRAVELER'S Pilfer box (n.) The drawer or cabinet back home containing the toiletries, sewing kits, eye mask that hyacinth-scented face spray older than your nephew—that you filched from hotel bathrooms.
