

Patients Moved to New UCSF Mission Bay Medical Center in San Francisco

February 1, 2015

UCSF will open its new Mission Bay campus on Sunday.

SAN FRANCISCO (KGO) -- UCSF Medical Center is transferring some 120 patients to the new center at Mission Bay in San Francisco. After nearly a decade of planning and building, this is opening day.

Altogether, 40 ambulances will be involved in the big move, which started at 7 a.m. Sunday.

UCSF Medical Center @UCSFHospitals
It takes a lot of ambulances to bring 100+ patients across town! #MissionBay
10:53 AM - 1 Feb 2015
45 RETWEETS 47 FAVORITES

The $1.5 billion medical center consists of three hospitals. One is for children, another for women, and a third specializes in cancer patients.

Marc Benioff @Benioff
Amazing @Ucsf has designed their own custom portable nicu (neonatal intensive care unit) used today!
10:24 AM - 1 Feb 2015
36 RETWEETS 61 FAVORITES

Salesforce.com founder Marc Benioff and his wife Lynne donated $100 million for the hospital that now bears their name, but he says the entire tech community contributed.

"Whether it was giving money, designing technology, creating a patient solution," he said.

On Sunday, Benioff tweeted updates with photos of patients on the move.

He also thanked San Francisco police for providing escorts to the new facility.

Marc Benioff
@Benioff

Thank you to @sfpd for escorting the new patients of @UCSFChildrens!

10:15 AM - 1 Feb 2015

40 RETWEETS 52 FAVORITES

UCSF Medical Center
@UCSFHospitals

Everything is going smoothly with our move! Thanks for all the support. #MissionBay

8:37 AM - 1 Feb 2015

19 RETWEETS 38 FAVORITES

UCSF Medical Center Events

Health/Medical/Pharmaceuticals · 206 Likes · Yesterday at 6:38am ·

A huge thank you to Chief Joanne Hayes-White for coming down to support our move to UCSF Medical Center at Mission Bay #MB2015

Share  16

<http://abc7news.com/health/patients-moved-to-new-ucsf-mission-bay-medical-center/500053/>