

First Baby Born At San Francisco's New UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital

February 2, 2015

SAN FRANCISCO (KGO) -- There wasn't much down time for the maternity staff at the new UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital when it opened on Sunday morning in San Francisco's Mission Bay.

That's because two minutes later, Nancy Price and her husband Vladimir Ramirez walked in, and Price was in labor.

UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital

Hospital · 21,880 Likes · 13 hrs · Edited ·

Like Page

Please join us in welcoming Paolo, the first baby born at our new Mission Bay hospital! Born at 12:11 p.m. on Feb. 1. Seven pounds, 1 ounce. Twenty inches.

Share · 1,271 · 34 · 29

They had been at the old Parnassus campus waiting for the birth of their son, but then had to rush over to the new hospital once the staff started to move Sunday morning.

"We went to bed that night thinking that we made it and we don't have to worry about the Feb. 1 move," he said. "Twenty minutes after I feel asleep she woke me up and was like, 'hey, we gotta go.'"

Little Paolo was born four hours later.

Dad was happy the maternity rooms at the new hospital have big screen televisions. They were perfect for watching the Super Bowl with his new baby.