

Oakland Fire: Benefits, Vigils and Other Ways to Honor the Victims

By: Emmanuel Hapsis

Dec. 5, 2016

When tragedy strikes, as it did over the weekend in Oakland, a feeling of helplessness can take hold. But eventually we pick ourselves up, find ways in which we can help, and seek out spaces where we can collectively mourn and be there for each other. Here are some benefits, vigils and other events for those affected by the Oakland warehouse fire happening around the Bay Area:

Musical Reflections of 2016

Sunday, Dec. 18 from 11am to 3pm

Chapel of the Chimes (4499 Piedmont Ave, Oakland, CA)

A free four-hour musical gathering in honor of the victims. Performers donating their services and talents include Kitka, the Temple of Light Georgian Community Choir, Sharmi Basu, the William Winant Percussion Group, the Cardew Choir, and many more.
