So you've done the Big Apple, the Grand Canyon, Vegas and Maui. When you and the fam are in the mood for less "been there, done that" and more "under-the-radar hidden gem," every state in the union has your back.

From sleepy small towns with loads of culture and character to quirky, one-of-a-kind museums, GoBankingRates.com has put together a list of beaches, museums, parks and more, collecting the best hidden gem travel spots in every state. Be sure to check out these secret travel spots before they blow up by clicking through the gallery above and find out each state's tourist attraction that you probably don't know about.

Looking for slightly more offbeat places to visit? GoBankingRates.com has you covered with a list of underrated (and at times downright odd) places in each state to visit:

Hawaii: Byodo-In Temple (Cost: $4 general admission, $2 for children):

When in Honolulu, forget touristy bustle and embrace the quietude of the state's most famous — but not that famous — non-denominational, all-faiths Buddhist temple, located among the Ko'olau foothills of the Valley of the Temples Memorial Park. Meditate among the Japanese-inspired architecture, frolic with the wild peacocks and koi of the gardens or just vibe out at the reflecting ponds. It's a place to slow down and get your Zen on.
