

Tasty Mother's Day Gift Ideas

MAY 8, 2015

By RACHEL WEINGARTEN

Ah, mom. She cooked all those mashed peas for you when you were a baby and then served up dinner after dinner year after year after year. Isn't it time that you returned the favor? This Mother's Day, instead of the usual flowers (though who doesn't love flowers?) and brunch, why not get her something she'll treasure for longer than a single afternoon?

3: Make it easy: I'm not sure when it happened, but lazy Susans have become a thing. Placed in the middle of a table, they can add a touch of whimsy or simply make it easier to eat without reaching over everyone else to get to the grub. Native Trails, a California-based brand of luxury, eco-friendly kitchen, bath and lifestyle products, offers a version handmade by artisans from sustainably grown bamboo. They're also each one-of-a-kind, just like your mom! Or if she's worried about keeping her table perfect, try treating her to these Moroccan Midnight Tile Coasters, which are hand painted tile coasters inspired by vivid Moroccan nightlife. They're also artisan crafted entirely by hand using centuries-old techniques and made from a combination of the artisans' local clays, hand painted and twice fired.

<http://communitytable.com/394067/rachelweingarten/tasty-mothers-day-gift-ideas/>