

Walmart hiring more than 3,200 seasonal associates in California

Walmart announced Thursday that they're hiring more than 3,200 seasonal associates in California for the upcoming holiday season.

The company said that it brings on additional help during the holiday season and that employees initially hired as seasonal sales associates, cashiers and stockers often continue as full-time employees.

According to the company, more than half of Walmart's seasonal employees nationwide continued with the company as permanent employees.
